

Press Release

April 5, 2009

Genesis Security Systems Ends 1st Quarter With Three New Major Project Awards

Genesis Security Systems LLC is pleased to announce that it has been awarded three new major security upgrade and expansion projects with several firms in the DC metro area. These projects include:

National Gateway (The Meridian Group), Clarendon Center (B. F. Saul), 7501 Wisconsin (B. F. Saul) and a large government financial organization.

All of the above projects involve the high-level integration of access control, CCTV, intercom and intrusion detection. Two of the projects are new construction, one involves renovation and build out of an existing office space and one requires database transfer and integration to a new platform. One of the projects, National Gateway, will involve more than a million square feet of office build out. All of these projects are based on the Software House access control and alarm management platform.

According to Alan Kruglak at Genesis, "Even in tight economic conditions, the demand for quality design, installation and service still plays a dominant role in the selection of a security systems integration partner by our clients. By offering the best value in the market, we will continue to see this as a key trend among our primary clients."

For more information on the above projects, please contact Chris Foster at 301-515-4400 or cfoster@gensecsystems.com.

2050

Security Solutions Supported By Responsive Customer-First Service