Regulatory Commission

As part of the service plan for this large-scale integrated system, Genesis will be providing their Reliable-24 Service Plan, including software maintenance. When asked why they decided to change vendors, the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission said, "We were looking for personal service and quick response time. That's why we selected Genesis Security Systems."

Also this week, the Universal Service Administrative Company (USAC) selected Genesis to provide an integrated access control, photo-ID, CCTV and alarm monitoring system for their new headquarters in Washington, DC. As part of this project, Genesis will be "turning on a dime" by installing an fully integrated system within three weeks.
